Index to Volume 8

Articles

CARTER, RONALD. Is there a core vocabulary? 178

DAVIES, EIRLYS. A contrastive approach to the analysis of politeness formulas 75

FAERCH, CLAUS and GABRIELE KASPER. Perspectives on language transfer 111

FLEGE, JAMES EMIL. A critical period for learning to pronounce foreign languages? 162

GIERUT, JUDITH A. and DANIEL A. DINNSEN. On predicting ease of phonological learning 241

HUANG, XIAO-HUA and MARGARET VAN NAERSSEN. Learning strategies for oral communication 287

KENNEDY, GRAEME D. Quantification and the use of English: A case study of one aspect of the learner's task 264

KURZON, DENNIS. Latin for lawyers: Degrees of textual integration 233

PICA, TERESA. Second-language acquisition, social interaction, and the classroom 3

PIOTROWSKI, TADEUSZ. Indication of English pronunciation in bilingual dictionaries 39

ROGERS, MARGARET. Learners' difficulties with grammatical gender in German as a foreign language 48

SANTOS, TERRY. Markedness theory and error evaluation: An experimental study 207

SCHOLFIELD, PHIL. Communication strategies—the researcher outmanœuvred? 219

SCHWEDA-NICHOLSON, NANCY. Linguistic and extra-linguistic aspects of simultaneous interpretation 194

SPADA, NINA M. Relationships between instructional differences and learning outcomes: a process-product study of communicative language learning 137

WELTENS, BERT. The attrition of foreign-language skills: a literature review 22

WHITE, LYDIA. Against comprehensible input: the input hypothesis and the development of second-language competence 95

Reviews

Alderson, J. C. and A. H. Urquhart (eds.): Reading in a Foreign Language (MICHAEL STUBBS) 89

Freedman, A., I. Pringle and J. Yalden (eds.): Learning to Write/First Language/Second Language (MICHAEL STUBBS) 89

Eliasson, S. (ed.): Theoretical Issues in Contrastive Phonology (ALLAN R. JAMES) 308